

Seasons

All four seasons have its own characteristics. Different colors, different clothes, different flowers and different flavors. They all have their unique style and they determine the style of the season. Using this different flavors and different styles is it possible to create chocolate which belongs to a specific season?

